Full Publicity Was Offer In Discussion With Jonas

Final Expression of Fairness Was Written By Arthur Gledhill Just Before Demise

The following letter was mailed under date of November 14, 1935:

Mr. Wm. J. Jonas, Brisbane California.

My Dear Mr. Jonas: From your letter to me of November 5th quoting extensively from past issues of the Brisbane Sun, and ending with this paragraph—

"I demand and request that these statements be withdrawn and retracted by proper publication in as conspicuous a place and type in the newspaper as was given to the publication thereof. Said

OUR HERO

GEORGE LUDLOW RESCUES YOUTH FROM CHILLY BAY

On Sunday afternoon, November 17th, at 3 o'clock, the fire siren called the Brisbane fire department to the rescue of two San Francisco youths in danger of drowning off Sierra Point, across the highway.

George Ludlow, 18, is a Junior fireman as well as a member of Brisbane Scout Troop No. 134. The fire truck carried our ever-valiant fire boys to the line of our fire district where a passing auto was commandeered and first aid equipment transferred and a quick run carried them to within a mile of the scene where hundreds of motorists were watching two struggling figures in the bay. George Ludlow ran that last mile, and although nearly exhausted, unhesitatingly stripped off his clothes.

"Let me go," George said, "I'm a good swimmer." A strong ebb tide was running. In the place of a small boat, a mass of large timber, a 20-foot signpost was uprooted and George Ludlow and fireman Roy Edwards with Highway Patrolman Ferrasini were into this most dangerous rescue.

Near exhaustion in the water were Paul Feudner, 19, 34 Liberty Street, and Rudolph Neimeyer, 20, 126 San Carlos Avenue, San Francisco. The two, with Neimeyer's stepfather and Charles Baker, were on their regular Sunday outing. Unfortunately, Rudy Neimeyer was drowned—his body was recovered Monday.

Our hero, George Ludlow, managed to bring Feudner close in shore where firemen C. Wingler and L. Terry wading in, waist deep, carried the boy to an improvised "first-aid" station and then to the emergency hospital at South San Francisco.

Being a hero embarrasses George Ludlow so he goes alone to a show that night and Monday he reports at the Presidio for duty in the CCC organization. President Roosevelt may well be proud of this boy who at the risk of his own life answered the call of duty, unflinchingly, as he saw it.

A thousand people witnessed this bit of drama and thousands more acclaim our Hero.

Charley Baker, Neimeyer's friend says: "Don't forget that other young man, Roy Edwards, who took his chances in the deep water but was unable to reach Neimeyer in time, he having gone down from exhaustion."

Baker also commended the work of the fifteen firemen who answered the call.

Herman Webber, Fox Film Corporation, a witness, sends in a check for five dollars to start a medal fund.

MY FRIEND

Arthur Gledhill was a man of great mental capacity, of wide experience and broad outlook. A dynamic personality, a man of less courage would have been more cautious, but Arthur Gledhill was absolutely fearless. His principles and convictions were his religion. He "carried on" with no fear of bodily harm or of mental strain.

His house was "Home, Sweet Home" and his home life was beautiful.

In an eventful life, he had lost some skirmishes, but not one major battle, until now.

Farwell, my Friend,

Richard Barhart.

statements so published by you WERE AND ARE UNTRUE. I assume that you have other views concerning the subject matter complained of.

Therefore in line with this thought, I hasten to advise you that if such is your feeling, the columns of the Brisbane Sun are at your disposal, wherein to present your version of such matters mentioned, and will be properly published. Providing only, that the Sun reserves the privilege of making such comments, in a separate column, as might occur to us as pertinent.

Trusting that this offer will receive your approval and that we may soon have your "copy," I remain,

Respectfully yours,
ARTHUR GLEDHILL,
Publisher, Brisbane Sun.

P.S.—I am printing your letter because of its new interest to the people of Brisbane, because of the public nature of the items quoted.—A. G.

DONALD GLEDHILL UPHOLDS HIS FATHER

At the date of my father's death, there had not been time for a reply. I am sorry that we will never know for certain whether Mr. Jonas would have accepted the offer of a full and open public discussion. Dad felt that a community condition confronted Brisbane—a personal grievance, and that the newspaper was vitally concerned with the acts of those who assumed conduct of public affairs. Living at a distance and not being familiar with the details, I am not in a position to carry on the discussion, except to say that I would like to go on record as personally supporting as an obvious matter of loyalty and confidence anything which my father did or wrote in the Sun. That goes for Mr. Jonas or anybody else.

Under the circumstances, it seems to me that the fairest thing to do in this final issue of the Sun is to reprint in full the letter which Mr. Jonas wrote under date of November 5. From that point on I believe that the questions under particular discussion can safely be left to the personal knowledge, common sense and good judgment of the people of Brisbane.

DONALD GLEDHILL.

November 5, 1935.

The Brisbane Sun.
Mr. Arthur Gledhill,
Owner and Publisher,
Brisbane, California.

Dear Sir:

Notice is hereby given that you published in different weekly issues of your paper statements of and concerning me, William J. Jonas, the substance of which articles was as follows:

That Jonas betrayed the people of the town of Brisbane; tried to locate the United States Post Office at Brisbane in a Liquor Store;

That the United States mail would be delivered from pillar to post if Jonas was Postmaster;

That Jonas was a welcher—refused to carry out his contracts;

That Jonas, a leader in the Voter's League, sell out Brisbane for a few dirty dollars; that Jonas induced hundreds of Chinese to come to Brisbane to gamble and operate a lottery in the Voters League building, and by coercion suppress discussion thereof; that Jonas for this betrayal of the honor of the people of Brisbane, received $200.

That Jonas operates a liquor Store;

That Jonas was responsible for locating the Brisbane Branch of the County Library in his Liquor Store;

That Jonas is against the best interest of the Town of Brisbane;

That Jonas brutally and cowardly assaulted Gledhill;

That the disgraceful sale by Jonas to said Chinese split Brisbane Voter's League three ways;

That Jonas brought the disgraceful Chinese gamblers and lottery to Brisbane;

That Jonas is Public Enemy No. 1 of Brisbane;

To My Father's Friends

Dad was a game little chap and liked to finish what he started. So we are printing this final issue of the Brisbane Sun for him, printing it to write after his name the "—30—" which by newspaper tradition of many years is the mark that an editor will write no more.

Sad as our trip to Brisbane last week was, we found other things to remember with admiration and pride. The people we met were fine substantial citizens, good neighbors, good friends of my father. And there were a lot of them. Talking with them; seeing the respect which they read for dad's character and their kindly feeling for his wife gave us a new and affectionate regard for Brisbane.

Like the worth-while people who were his friends, dad was looking to the future. He saw clearly that in a few years, with the natural progress of a growing district, and when there is next another period of adequate jobs and money, Brisbane will be as it should be—a self-respecting community of homes, proud of its schools, libraries, newspaper service and civic improvements. The ideal of that future seemed to him to justify the work of pioneering. I have not the slightest doubt that the day after day efforts to continually develop a better community spirit wore down dad's health and that the petty attacks against him contributed to his fatal illness. I don't think that I would have had as much courage to keep on working just out of faith in the future, but he did have that courage. More than that, he really enjoyed doing it, and he died in harness, active, full of kindly humor and a high sense of personal independence.

So we write "—30—" for a personality which you as his friends will sincerely miss, a community, now and as the years bring on that progress which my father did more than his full share as a man and as a citizen to hasten.

DONALD GLEDHILL.

NEWS FLASHES

By ROY EDWARDS

Mrs. Gledhill: This column extends heartfelt sympathy in this hour of bereavement. Words are inadequate to express the sorrow at the news of your affliction. To have enjoyed the friendship of your husband I hold one of the greatest privileges of my life. May the memory of the honorable life just ended sustain and comfort you.

I wonder why a man's intelligence is often gauged by the amount of money he has, when he probably acquired it by breaking some poor guy's back or used his friend's neck for a rung on the ladder he used going to the top.

We could make this old world a better place to live in if we got out and enjoyed ourselves more. Remember the only difference between a groove and a rut is the length and depth. Why not join a club and really enjoy yourself with your neighbors.

To the parents . . . you will find some excellent food for thought in Proverbs 22:6: "Train up a child in the way he shall go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Funny no one mentioned anything about Marshal Terry and fireman Chet Wingler when the praise was handed out in the Bay rescue. They plunged into the water with ALL their clothes on to assist with the rescue of young Feudner. Not bad!

Report of Chief of Fire Department

Arthur Gledhill's inquest was held Tuesday at Nieri's Funeral Home, South San Francisco, by Coroner W. F. Crosby.

Art Gledhill was a member of the department when we first organized in March, 1932, but his work did not allow him much time to stay with the department. He was an ardent supporter and always had a good word for this worthy cause.

Social Club Has Fire Protection
With the finishing of walls and ceiling in the Social Hall, a great improvement was also added by the installation of a new fire extinguisher. This will help cut down fire damage and expense. We appreciate your cooperation very much.

November 21—First aid alarm, to Bayshore Highway and Visitation Avenue, auto accident. Mr. J. Harnick of Brisbane was given first aid treatment for cuts to wrist, face and head injuries. Ambulance was phoned for but injured was taken in private car to San Francisco hospital.

November 23—First aid was given to Robert Brisky who injured his leg from a spill in Brisbane from his motorcycle. Aid was rendered by fireman Wingler and he was later taken to a hospital.

F. H. SCHMIDT,
Fire Chief.

Due to the many expressions of sympathy and letters herewith printed in this, the final issue, many advertisements were necessarily crowded out by the printer at the last moment. We assure all that this was unavoidable and not intentional.

Death of Arthur Gledhill Loss To Whole Community

Rev. Pendleton Says Deceased Upheld High Tradition In Services at Redwood City

Tribute to Arthur Gledhill, 56, editor of the Brisbane Sun, as one of those who followed the high traditions of American journalism was paid today by the Rev. Norman W. Pendleton at services in the Lange & Tinney chapel at Redwood City.

Arthur Gledhill was stricken last Tuesday at the meeting of the San Mateo County Fireman's Association in the Brisbane Social Club hall.

"Suffer us not," the Rev. Pendleton asked in a prayer, "by thoughtless condemnation to weaken the arm and chill the spirit of those who strive for the betterment of mankind."

Prayer
"We thank thee, our Father, for the forerunners of truth, the pathfinder of justice, the heralds of brotherhood, the prophets of a progressively better world. The children of the forward look who gave their thoughts and their prayers and advice for the truth of God and the progress of the people."

"Grant us an unerring instinct for what is right and true and a swift sympathy to divine those who truly love and serve humanity."

"Grant us that we too, may be counted in the chosen band of those who have given their lives as a ransom for many. Send us forth with the pathfinders of humanity to lead the people another day's march toward the acceptable time of justice and brotherhood."

Had Courageous Spirit
In his tribute, he said:

"I deeply cherish this opportunity to pay a deserved tribute to my long-time friend, the courageous and heroic editor of 'The Brisbane Sun.'"

"Arthur Gledhill upheld the best traditions of genuine American journalism."

"You know that there was a time when the newspaper editorial played a creative part in the progressive on-going of developing Americanism, in the ever-widening application of American life."

"That time was the day of the great free and independent editor-owners. The creative public opinion-moulding editorial became a part of the American tradition."

But, alas, today that heroic tradition lives for the most part only in the smaller cities and towns and the American countryside.

"The great metropolitan newspaper chains have well nigh destroyed the power of the editorial. The editorial pen bought and paid for by some newspaper monarch becomes a mere tool of his almighty whims, and hates and selfish objectives."

"But in our smaller cities and towns we still find, here and there, a flash of the heroic editorial fire. A survival of the real American newspaper."

"Arthur Gledhill was such an editor."

Scorn for Hypocrite
"With a fine scorn for the hypocrite, a high disdain for the grafter, and a true Christian hate for the despoiler of human values, he spared not himself. He was at once the defender of true American ideals and the champion of the forgotten man."

"If he had enemies (and, 'Woe unto you when all men speak well of you') they were the men whom he believed constituted the enemies of the people—traitors to the objectives of a nation birthed to create a more abundant life for the common people. The real enemy within our gates."

"If the type of men that he fought are not driven from political power and control throughout America, our democracy is doomed and our civilization will go the way of all flesh."

"God grant to the people of America the insight and wisdom to uphold the pen of the free and courageous editors of true American journalism."

The Masonic funeral service was directed by Sir Francis Drake Lodge No. 376 of South San Francisco. Those officiating were: Charles Wesley King, past Master and Secretary, supported by Carl E. Petersen, present Master and Brother Walter Shilton of Redwood Lodge No. 168 and Brother Arthur Annis of Starr King Lodge No. 344, San Francisco.

More than two score floral offerings converting the funeral niche and bier into a veritable flower garden, were from those who knew him for his grace of learning, his true courage as a man, positively without fear. His family life was beautiful, a "Home, Sweet Home" his upmost, first thought.

The music included "My Rosary" on the marimba, by "Doc" Willits with organ obligato. The pallbearers were: Robert Netzer, Roy Hollingum, James Robinson, George Heywood, Harold Trafford and Norman Brown. Interment took place in Alta Mesa Cemetery. Arthur Gledhill is

THOSE WHO KNEW HIM

Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
More words cannot assuage the grief that fills one's heart when Husband and Father is called from our midst.

Yet, I wish to extend my sincere sympathy to you in these, your hours of sorrow.

I know, however, that you and Donald will gain much comfort from the fact that your husband was a man of sterling character, lovable, cheritable and a person who radiated sunshine and happiness wherever he went.

I am certain that when he laid down to peaceful rest he did so with that satisfaction that is gained by lives well done.

The memory of his fine disposition will long remain with all who knew him as will the multitude of kind acts that were strewn by your husband along his pathway of life.

Sincerely,
WALTER KELLOGG,
County Executive.

Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
I wish to express my sorrow at the death of my Friend and Social Club Brethren, Arthur Gledhill.

He was a fearless fighter for Brisbane and . . .

When we pass beyond this earthly veil we know not whence we go or when, but I trust that somewhere across the great divide he has found that tranquil peace and happiness that one can not attain in earthly life.

Sincerely,
LINWOOD D. BLAIR,
President B. S. C.

Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
May I, in this, your time of grief, extend to you my sincere sympathy at the passing on of your beloved husband.

Although his departure will leave a void that will remain forever unfilled, yet I know you will gain much comfort at the knowledge that he lived a most useful life.

While your heart is filled with sorrow, I am certain that consolation will come with the thought that your beloved husband now has rest and peace, a release from the worries and fallings of this world of ours.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM C. MCCARTHY,
County Director of Publicity.

Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
Permit us to join with you in your grief. We offer you our sincere sympathies for the loss of a faithful one. He has answered the last alarm, and was a fireman to the end.

F. H. SCHMIDT, Fire Chief, and Family.

Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
Just a few words about our departed editor.
Mr. Gledhill was a man that knew what life and a friend was. I hope every one will read the sermon by Dr. Pendleton and get the full meaning of it. Read it again and again, that you may profit.

HAROLD J. TRAFFORD.

My Dear Mrs. Gledhill:
It was with great shock to me when I read about Mr. Gledhill passing in last night's paper.

Let me express my deepest sympathy.

Yours respectfully,
FRANK V. KINGTON,
San Carlos, Calif.

O

Sister Lorena Gledhill:

You have the heartfelt sympathy of the Brisbane Social Club in this your hour of bereavement. We wish that we might find words with which to express our sorrow at your loss, which is also ours. May you have the strength to bear this great affliction.

Most Sincerely,
LINWOOD D. BLAIR, Pres.
ROY EDWARDS, Secretary.

survived by his wife Lorena, and a son, Donald.
His soul has found peace.

Tangier's Front Yards Are Family Burial Lots

Chesapeake Bay Islanders Retain Old Customs.

Washington.—Quaint Tangier island, in lower Chesapeake bay, is to have a paved street. Federal funds have been provided for resurfacing the little island's only thoroughfare, which is now a sandy road 10 feet wide and about a mile long.

"Ordinarily such an event would be news only to the inhabitants of the island," says the National Geographic society, "but Tangier holds the interest of its neighbors on the mainland because of unique customs, the outgrowth of nearly three centuries of isolation."

"Discovered in 1608 by Capt. John Smith, Tangier was inhabited only by Indians until 1666. In that year the first white man settled there."

"The island, within a day's journey from the nation's capital, is about three miles long and two miles wide. Situated 12 miles southwest of Crisfield, Maryland, Tangier lies just south of the line marking the Maryland-Virginia boundary, which cuts across Chesapeake bay from east to west. Surrounded on all sides by shallow water, it is inaccessible except to small craft. Some years ago steamers from Baltimore landed passengers and freight at a pier off the southern tip of the island, but this service has been discontinued. Small mail and passenger boats from Crisfield enter daily through a channel dredged from the northern end of Tangier."

Many Fishing Craft.

"Approaching Tangier, the visitor sees a low, marshy island, bare of trees except along two sparsely wooded ridges that extend down the center of the island like twin bristles."

"After a difficult passage along a tortuous channel the visiting boat enters a harbor filled with fishing craft of the 'bugeye' type—sailboats characterized by two tall, slanting masts. In these and smaller boats the hardy islanders gather fish, oysters, crabs, and clams from the surrounding waters."

"The sightseer is forced to rely upon his own legs for transportation. As in Bermuda, automobiles are unknown and there is only one horse on the island. Wheelbarrows, handcarts, and a few bicycles are the sole conveyances. Several canals, aiding intra-island commerce, suggest the Netherlands."

"Walking down Tangier's main street might well be a spooky experience at night, for most of the residents' front yards are family burying grounds. By day, however, the shade cast by the cool green arch of trees makes a stroll along the narrow road a pleasant outing. Tangier women wear exceptionally large sunbonnets and some even protect their arms with cut-out stockings."

Family Names Are Limited.

"In one of the few large burying plots on the island only three family names are found among three or four dozen tombstones. It has long been the custom to affix numbers after surnames, so that various branches of the same family can be distinguished. Names found on Tangier recall those of the people on the Cornwall coast, from whom the natives of the Virginia island are directly descended."

"Fishing, oysters, and crabbing provide means of support for nearly everyone on Tangier. There are several sea food packing plants which employ many of the inhabitants. The captain of the mail boat, the postmaster, the minister, and an occasional visitor are the only persons on the island who do not make their livings from the fishing industry."

"Neat, white-picketed cottages are bordered by tiny vegetable gardens in which the island's 'truck' is raised. A small dairy provides necessary milk products and the bay yields the main courses on the islanders' dinner tables. Imported fruits, meats, and vegetables displayed in the grocery stores are regarded more as curiosities than as articles of food."

"Sunday brings a stop to all activities on Tangier. Every islander is a member of the church and all either attend services or remain indoors in order not to disturb the Sabbath peace. Such religious sentiment on the part of the islanders dates from the beginning of the Nineteenth century, when Tangier became a noted religious center. In 1800 the first of the island's famous mid-summer camp meetings was held on the beach. In succeeding years these meetings have attracted visitors from hundreds of miles around and they are still annual events."

"Of special interest to the visitor on Tangier are the church, and Tangier lighthouse, built in 1800 on the southern tip of the island. Tangier light, together with Watts island lighthouse, guard the southern entrance to Tangier sound."

Philippine Tribe Is Learning Own Tongue

Moros Read and Write With 16-Letter Alphabet.

Philadelphia.—The Moros, most barbarous tribe in the Philippine Islands, are learning to read and write their own language, according to Dr. Frank C. Laubach, missionary educator now spending a furlough here.

The Roman alphabet, which is being used to educate the descendants of war-like Moslems for their country's independence, was invented by Doctor Laubach at his school in Dansalan, Lanao.

"We have worked out a simple, lightning method of teaching the people," he said, "inserting all the humor we can into the process so that the natives cry out in amazement, 'How easy!'"

A small percentage of the 400,000 Moros in the islands can read and write Arabic, but as there has been nothing printed in that language, their literature is confined to what they write themselves.

Because of the high cost of Arabic type, Doctor Laubach and his associates decided to teach the people to use Roman letters. The simple alphabet was devised and books and newspapers printed.

"Fourteen minutes is the time we expect a bright man who knows Arabic letters to learn the Roman ones," the educator said. "Those who never knew how to read require from an hour to a week."

He and his associates now are engaged in translating English classics into Moro, printing them on their own press at Dansalan. A small weekly newspaper, which is called us Totul, or Heral, gives the news of the tribe.

"The people now stop Doctor Laubach on the street and offer to pay for being taught to write their own names. An old Hadji, a religious teacher, wanted to learn, but protested that he was too old to master the new alphabet. Finally he was persuaded."

"We kept him roaring with laughter," the educator said, "and in 15 minutes he knew every letter and could read. When he went up the road toward his house he was reading and laughing alternately."

Another great difficulty which has to be surmounted in teaching the Moros was their fear of having anyone see what they wrote. Arabic writings were locked up in strong boxes, but wisdom in Lanao no longer is held at such a high price.

Doctor Laubach, a native of Benton, Pa., has been working in the Philippines under the American board of commissioners for foreign missions since 1915.

Ohio Family Loses Job Held Many Years

East Liverpool, Ohio.—With the closing of the seventy-five-year-old post office at Clarkson, near here, the Warrick family was forced to surrender a job which had been theirs for 48 years.

Clark Warrick was the first of the family to hold the post, serving for 35 years. At his death in 1922, a brother, Clem V. Warrick, was appointed and served continuously until the post office was abandoned because of the establishment of rural free delivery service and lack of industries in the Clarkson district.

Americans Are Spending $2,181,000 Daily for Rum

Dwight, Ill.—Filling the nation's cocktail shakers, highball glasses, julep cups and cordial ponies costs Americans $2,181,000 a day, it is estimated by Martin Nelson, secretary of the Keeley Institute.

"People of this country are consuming hard liquor at the rate of 88,821,771 gallons a year," said Mr. Nelson, who based his figures on estimates compiled by statisticians of the institute. "This has a retail value of approximately $796,073,115."

"Seven of the forty-one wet states account for 50 per cent of the liquor consumed in the United States. These are California, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas, which have a combined consumption estimated at 45,031,830 gallons, costing approximately $400,000,000."

"New York leads the states in liquor consumption, with approximately 12,034,644 gallons. Illinois is second with 7,293,292 gallons, followed by Ohio with 6,353,356 gallons. Texas is fourth with 5,566,867 gallons. Then come California with 5,426,520, Pennsylvania with 4,955,046 and Massachusetts with 4,062,105 gallons."

PROTECT GIRL; DON'T SMOTHER SELF-RELIANCE

Who says today's girl has too much freedom? A writer in a recent issue of The Parents' Magazine declares that the daughter of the average American family is really the most sheltered of human beings; submits to being supervised and controlled far beyond her brothers. She queries the wisdom of this in a changing world where the position of women is, perhaps, more uncertain than ever before in the history of the human race.

"As boys approach the long-pants age they take unto themselves, with the tacit approval of their parents, all sorts of personal prerogatives relating to their choice of friends, the places they go, the way in which they spend their leisure," says the writer. "At college no one cares what time a boy gets up or goes to bed, where he goes, or how he puts in time outside the classroom. But his sister goes from the shelter of home to an authority to whom she must constantly account for nearly every detail of her life."

"Are parents afraid home training may be less effective for girls than for boys? Are feminine characters weaker? Are there greater dangers in the world for girls than for boys? The writer asks, and reveals test cases that convince her that parents dread automobile accidents and the results of undisciplined love affairs for their girls."

"What about the boys? Are they impulsive to either? The courts would not say so. Neither would the progressive educators who are constantly urging more freedom for the girl that she may become as self-reliant as her brothers. It is impossible to guard against every form of human misbehavior by defining and forbidding it, they say, and refer to statistics to prove that girls sow fewer and tamer 'wild oats' than their brothers, are more cautious and conservative in their behavior, and accept responsibility with greater eagerness."

When all is done and said, what do we bring our children up for if not to make them competent citizens, boys or girls well rounded individuals able to cope with the world? In the shelter of home or in the small world of the campus there is good opportunity to experiment with responsibility which begins with one self.

MILLIONS now know the smart thing is to carry a roll of Tums, always. Heartburn, gas, and other symptoms of acid indigestion have a habit of occurring at unexpected times. You don't have to drench your stomach with harsh alkalis which physicians have long warned may make the tendency toward acid indigestion worse. Tums, a real scientific advancement, contain no soda or other alkalis. Instead a wonderful antacid that simply neutralizes stomach acidity, the balance passing out of the body inert. ### ADVISED TO RESIGN

Dr. Theodor Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, who was advised to resign by former Supreme Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, following the union's investigation of Germany's pledge not to discriminate against Jewish athletes. Lewald, whose religious status is that of a "Non-Aryan Christian," is looked upon as a screen by Mr. Mahoney "to conceal his government's most flagrant violations of the Olympic ideal of fair play for all."

FULL PUBLICITY WAS OFFER TO JONAS

That Jonas continues palpable advertising graft; That Jonas was responsible for a Chinese lottery to open in the Town of Brisbane; Said articles were published along with other words and references to William J. Jonas at different times in your weekly newspaper, "The Brisbane Sun," as hereinafter set out in language in substance as above mentioned.

On February 9, 1935, was published the following:

"Through the months of mystery and rumor, at last comes the announcement that Mr. Jonas has secured the Post Office. . . . It may be that temporarily our Post Office will be lodged in the Drug and Liquor Store—but it is just as certain that the people of Brisbane will not remain content in his betrayal of their interests as regards the location of the one place they all are obliged to visit daily."

And also on said day in the same issue published:

"George Heywood received the highest marks in the examination. But the Drug and Liquor Store was interested, naturally, in Heywood's candidacy, as he could not use the Drug and Liquor Store as a location. . . . How long is Brisbane going to sit still and allow these things to be done to her?"

On March 9, 1935, was published the following:

"And if Jonas had gotten the Post Office. . . . our letters would have been carried from pillar to post."

On April 20, 1935, was published the following:

"A trusting Brisbane wife sent her hubby down to the Liquor Store to change a library book at the County Branch Library, and to get a prescription filled. . . . forgot the prescription, and came home, his pockets filled with Dodgers, and a house and lot under each arm."

On April 27, 1935, was published the following:

"Mr. Jonas is custodian of the County Branch Library by appointment of Administrator Kellogg, but we really believe the appointment was made through a misapprehension of the Brisbane situation."

And also on said day in the same issue published:

"Brisbane Sun Representative Slapped."

And also on said day in the same issue published:

"Jonas the Welcher."

And also on said day in the same issue published:

"The Post Office Another Chapter. . . . two men and two women took the ex. The two women had been induced to state in their government blanks, that they would move the post office further out of town to the Drug and Liquor Store."

"Tonight. . . . Brother Jonas will pour."

THE CONTEST COL'M

By R. EARHART, Brisbane, Calif.

Well folks, every garden what shows any improvement this year will get an Award Ribbon for '35.

An' folks, all Xmas Trees—indoor or outdoor—will receive Ribbons, with 1st, 2nd an' 3rd cash prizes for the best Outdoor Trees.

Then folks, C. Knous, former lieutenant of local firemen was a visitor last week.

An' folks, the Firebays gave away fifteen dollars an' a 10-pound turkey on Bank Night, November 23rd.

An' folks, Tony Annis was 12 years old November 18th.

Then folks, at the regular bi-monthly "At Home" of the Social Club, president Lyn Blair says: "No man shall have a greater heritage than the respect of his fellows when 'Taps' sound and the soul goes marching on. But his spirit will remain to help us in our problems. I ask that we all observe a 'Minute of Silence in sincere testimonial to our late brother, Arthur Gledhill."

An' folks, Norman Brown is our baby member.

Then folks, the building committee is goin' along right smart with the improvements.

Then folks, what an' a fine table were enjoyed by the members an' dancin' filled in till the witchin' hour.

Well folks, what with a smash-up an' a loss of $500, we wonder what is to happen to Miss Dewhurst next.

An' folks, Mamie Ludlow opens a dressmakin' an' repair parlor in the Apex Building.

An' folks, the local firemen were hosts to the Associated Firemen of San Mateo County on November 19th an' the next meetin' will be held at Lomita Park on December 3rd.

Well folks, how about the Girl Scouts?

However, folks, we'll be seein' yer, so, so long.

REPORT OF THE FIRE MARSHALL

By LOUIS TERRY

During recent years, the fire loss in the United States has been in the neighborhood of $500,000,000 annually, accompanied by the death of nearly 10,000 persons. This constitutes an economic waste nearly ten times greater than that of any other nation, a waste to which is added a charge of almost the same amount for buying and maintaining fire fighting equipment. Aggressive campaigns are therefore continually being waged with the idea of preventing fires.

Legislation is one of the principal methods of combatting the fire hazard. Practically every state has enacted laws designed not only to compel the construction of fireproof buildings, but to reduce the hazard inherent in the structures which have already been erected. Some states have created the office of State Fire Marshal, the appointee being charged with the duty of inspection and correction, in some cases being empowered to condemn and destroy properties which are a menace. Municipalities back up this effort with their fire fighting forces in such a manner, removing conditions which are likely to produce fires.

Education is a method of prevention, the campaigns being those of fire underwriters with sponsored by national associations the idea of reducing the cost of FIRE INSURANCE.

These campaigns begin with lectures delivered to school children by fire officials who point out the evils of carelessness and same issue published: "In short, the entire advertising appropriation granted the Brisbane Sun towards supplying your community with a Home Town Paper, of Leo's Market, Muddersbach's Market, Wilson's Auto Repair, and the Jonas Drug and Liquor scarcely exceeding the cost of producing two issues out of the 127."

On August 3, 1935, was published the following:

"Public Enemy No. 1—Now in Brisbane Jonas is high man for the 'crown'."

On August 31, 1935, was published the following:

"Jonas. . . . Continues Palpable Advertising Graft."

I demand and request that these statements be withdrawn and retracted by proper publication in as conspicuous a place and type in the newspaper as was given to the publication thereof. Said statements as published by you WERE AND ARE UNTRUE.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM J. JONAS.

BRISBANE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES

Rev. and Mrs. Hoffman and family desire to express their appreciation and thanks to every one of the Brisbane Sunday School and friends who had a part in the bounteous Thanksgiving Donation received on Wednesday. Not only the gifts themselves, but the thought which prompted them made it a most happy Thanksgiving for the recipients.

Sunday School will be held at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon at the schoolhouse and will be followed at 4 o'clock by a short preaching service.
